

Thomas Altman re-elected mayor

By JIM JONES

In their reorganizational meeting Monday, Oct. 12, Belle Glade City Commissioners unanimously re-elected Thomas Altman as their mayor.

"Are there any other nominations? Can we have some write-ins?" Altman quipped.

Recently re-elected commissioner Claude Tindall was elected vice mayor, replacing Randy Davidson, who did not seek re-election during the last election.

Bill Greer, a veteran of 10 years' service on the city commission who was returned to office after a two-year absence in the last election, was elected city treasurer.

Commissioners also rehired their attorney, John Baker.

In other action Monday, commissioners:

*Agreed to make a change to the city's ordinance governing occupational license fees charged to rental car agencies.

Currently, the ordinance is $100 plus $40 a car. Arthur L. Thompson, a local rental dealer, said that the fee is excessive.

Thompson said that the fee in West Palm Beach is only $55, even when hundreds of cars are operated.

Commissioner George Goforth agreed that the current city fee seemed too high and thought that $100 would be a fair fee.

Commissioner Charles Goodlett also agreed, saying that the city would have difficulty keeping up with the number of cars a dealer has on hand.

Attorney John Baker suggested that the commission also consider truck rentals and trailer rentals when updating the ordinance.

Commissioners agreed to make the change in fee structure retroactive to Oct. 1.

*Postponed appointments to Citizen Participation Committees so that newly elected commissioners may have time to decide on nominees.

*Refrained from joining with the Palm Beach County Municipal League in asking that county commission representation on the Solid Waste Authority be reduced.

Currently, the Solid Waste Authority has seven members, four of whom are Municipal representatives and three are county commissioners.

The League is asking that county commission membership be reduced to one and that two citizens at large be named by the legislative delegation.

"The four-man majority is sufficient," said Altman.

*Proclaimed November as beautification month in Belle Glade.

Pahokee raises water rates

PAHOKEE - The Pahokee City Council Tuesday, October 13, gave final approval to a resolution raising water rates, and heard testimony on a proposed convalescent nursing home.

Water rates will be $6 per thousand gallons inside the city and $7.50 outside the city. Water users will pay $1.90 cents for every 1,000 gallons over 3,000 gallons if they live in the city; and $2.38 for every 1,000 gallons over 3,000 if they live outside the city.

The new rates, which were adopted on the first reading September 28, go into effect with the final meter readings in October.

Ray Hatton of Hatton Properties Inc. asked the council to consider a motion approving his plan to build a 60 bed convalescent nursing home with federal industrial revenue bonds.

According to Hatton, Pahokee would not assume any responsibility, but their approval is necessary to acquire the bonds.

City attorney Michael Staudard told the Council that banks can give lower interest rates on the bonds because they do not have to pay taxes on them, thus enabling them to make a higher profit.

The council will consider the proposal at its next meeting.

The council also heard testimony from automobile was stolen while she was in school. It was involved in a felony before it was recovered and the police impounded it pending completion of their investigation.

Upon the completion of the investigation, it was released to a wrecking company, which was informed it could turn the car over to its owner.

Freeman claims the car was destroyed without notice to her or members of her family.

The council told Freeman that it is the responsibility of the wrecker and that she should hire the services of an attorney.

In other business, the council repealed the

4 plead innocent to kidnapping

BELLE GLADE - Four suspects charged with the kidnapping of Bruce Hatton pleaded innocent before County Judge Don T. Adams Friday, Oct. 9, and their trial will be held in West Palm Beach.

Alfred Meeks, 31, Karen Angela Dunnaway, 34, Raymond D. Alphone, 27, and Wade Kelly, 23, all pleaded innocent to multiple charges.

Meeks and Dunnaway face charges of conspiracy to commit kidnapping, kidnapping, burglary and aggravated battery. Alphone and Kelly face charges of kidnapping, burglary and aggravated battery.

Hatton, 17, was abducted from his Pahokee apartment September 20. Denise Dunnaway, 15, his girlfriend, was severely beaten.

Assistant State Attorney Michael Miller said the case will be transferred to West Palm Beach because he did not feel an impartial jury could be selected in the Glades area.

PHA looks for better vector control

By JEFF BROWN

PAHOKEE - The Pahokee Housing Authority may find it more efficient and economical to hire an in-house vector exterminator instead of contracting the work out, according to Randall J.

Mills, PHA executive officer.

Mills informed the PHA commissioners

Tuesday, October 13, that he had dismissed the company under contract with the authority to provide exterminating services because the individual assigned to the authority operated units failed to show up.

He also informed the board that the company, Palm Beach Exterminating Service West Inc., will not be paid for September because it failed to render the contracted services.

"We'll probably hear more on this," said Mills, who added that he decided the company was not doing its job when he entered several vacant units and noticed a pest problem.

"We (PHA chairman

Meed Maxwell and Mills)

went into one of these units and could probably have filled up a wheelbarrow with roaches," he said. "Now, you're going to have roaches, we all do.

I have roaches. But you shouldn't be overrun with them."

The authority could hire a new service, or it could hire and train a person to do it under the management of the authority.

"The problem you run into there is supervision of the person," said Mills.

"I understand the authority had done it this way before but it ran into that problem. The man would get to know people

Water needs reviewed by Committee

By JIM JONES

Local agricultural experts appeared before the House Select Committee on Water Management in Belle Glade Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 13, in an effort to guarantee adequate water supplies for the Everglades agricultural area in future years.

Chairman Chuck Smith (D-Brooksville) said the committee came to the Glades on a fact finding mission to determine if changes should be made to Public Law 373, which governs water management practices.

"Our objective is to ascertain what everybody really feels about water management in Florida," Smith said.

Based on what the committee has learned during its trip, a single water law for the entire state would be very difficult to draft, Smith said, referring to the varying hydrologic conditions in different regions of the state.

Smith said he has gained an appreciation for water management districts which address specific areas, but that the committee has not made any decisions yet.

One of the problems addressed by the committee during the hearing in Belle Glade City Hall was agricultural and urban demands on the same water supply.

Dr. J. R. Orensigo, director of research for the Florida Sugar Cane League, said that agricultural interests are among the best stewards of water resources.

A grower is unlikely to overuse water, as overuse is as detrimental as too little water, he said.

Normally during the summer, the Everglades agricultural area discharges water to the management system, he said.

Although there is a finite amount of water available, Orensigo said he would not say that competition now exists between urban areas and Glades growers for Lake Okechobee water.

Agricultural water needs have remained relatively stable, while urban demands have soared, he said.

"My impression as a 25 year resident of Belle Glade is that urban demand has increased fourfold, while agricultural demand has increased 25 percent," he said.

Asked by the committee about the best use of Glades land, Orensigo said that he believes it is best suited to agricultural production. Currently, sugar cane provides the greatest return on investment, he said.

He noted that the $260 million sugar cane industry has a net value of about $800 million when economic multipliers are applied.

If the Glades area were to be used for urban purposes, the demand for water supplies might be even greater, he said.

Orensigo said that Lake

Okaloosa is the best reservoir for excess water available. Water not needed in the agricultural area should be stored in the lake, he said.

Asked about pollution of the lake, Orsenigo said that sampling for pesticides has never produced a report of violation of existing standards.

Fertilizer finding its way into the lake isn't a problem, because farmers don't over-fertilize, "they can't afford to," he said.

Nitrogen is little used in this area because the organic soil is rich in nitrogen. Phosphorus is little used on cane fields because while it promotes growth, it produces a low sucrose content, he said.

Water quality and water quantity standards need to be tied together, Orsenigo said.

Asked by Rep. Smith about the Rotenberg and Holey Land Wildlife Management Areas, Orsenigo said the land has been mismanaged from an agricultural standpoint.

Orsenigo spoke of droughts which allowed deep cracks to develop in the soil of the wildlife management area, following by inundation.

Farmers wouldn't tolerate the muck fires which plague the area, he said.

"An area like that is going to be far more productive in agriculture," he said.

John Hundley, a board member of the South Florida Water Management District and a local farmer, said that the Everglades agriculture area is a net contributor to the water system.

Hundley noted that most of the recent three foot increase in the level of Lake Okaloosa came from the Everglades area, rather than the lower Kissimmee River Valley.

No one should be under the impression that Glades farmers have an unlimited supply of water available to them, Hundley said.

Hundley said current water laws are adequate and that he has no problems with them.

Bob Simonson of Pahokee said that he did not believe agricultural interests have harmed the lake and asserted that water quality is better in the Glades than on the coast, citing the commercial seining industry which flourished until this year's drought.

"I don't believe we're harming the lake. We out numbered and on the defensive. We're a minority group out here," Simonson said.

Bob Lee, vice president for community affairs at United States Sugar Corp., asked the committee to consider agriculture's contribution to the state's economy, and to ensure that agriculture is assured of the amount of water that it needs.

Chairman Smith said agriculture is often wrongfully seen as the "heavy" in water use matters, while the real culprits go unpublicized.

Prior to Tuesday's public hearing, the committee had toured the area affected by helicopter and by aircraft to get a first-hand appreciation of the local situation.

The committee was scheduled to have a public hearing Wednesday at the South Florida Water Management District office in West Palm Beach.

Members of the Select Committee on Water Management include Rep. Peter Dunbar, Rep. Spud Clemmons, Rep. Chuck Smith, Rep. Don Price, and Rep. Frank Messersmith.

More water cutbacks coming

Although specific cutbacks in water use were not ordered, the South Florida Water Management District put South Florida on notice Friday, Oct. 9, that water conditions are not optimistic as the dry season begins.

At its October meeting today in West Palm Beach, the District's Governing Board initiated a "tightened down" approach to controlling water within the water management system. The District will use this operational program to distribute water as equitably and efficiently as possible. Further restrictions on water use may be necessary as the dry season progresses, but were not judged to be required at this time.

Among the measures the District will take to control water are:

- * Hold District canals in the Everglades Agricultural Area to a

- level of 10 feet mean sea level, instead of the 11.5 feet held in recent years.
- * Determine the historical water demands on Lake Okaloosa and each Water Conservation Area for the total dry season, and for each month within that season (November through May). This calculated amount of water will become a basis on which the District will determine whether or not demands outpace supplies, and restrictions will be required. Such determinations will be made on a month-by-month basis.
- * Operate all outflow structures connected to Lake Okaloosa or any of the Water Conservation Areas. Some of these structures have been operated in the past by private landowners or drainage districts.
- * Hold the Water Conservation Areas as close to maximum schedules as possible, while keeping coastal canals about one foot lower than optimum.

and talking all day."

Mills said the PHA could get all the necessary chemicals, equipment, and training, for $500 per month if it board that the authority's 1981-82 operating budget was approved by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The budget, which provided a 10 percent raise to all city employees retroactive to July 1, 1981, was given HUD approval October 2, 1981.

The HUD's recent decision to experiment with regular rent districts instead of low rent districts would not affect Pahokee.

According to Mills, HUD is experimenting with the creation of authorities offering units at regular rental rates instead of low rental rates in an attempt to bail out authorities on the brink of bankruptcy.

The Pahokee Housing Authority does not fall into that category, he said.

"I think the authority probably once was (in that category) but is not now," said Mills.

The HUD's recent decision to experiment with regular rent districts instead of low rent districts would not affect Pahokee.

He said he feels the experiment is an attempt to find a way to help the federal government out of its financial troubles.

"I believe in the public housing concept," said Mills. "I believe maybe there are some things that need to be changed in it, but I think the Reagan administration is maybe going too far."

Mills also told the board the city plans to raise water rates another 40 cents per thousand gallons over the minimum.

"I can find very little wrong with the budget at all. I think the 40 cent increase, if anything, is low compared to what they could have raised it to," he said. "I do think the council should be made aware that the people of Pahokee don't want it to go on, raising it every year, year after year."

Thirty-eight Haitian cane workers remain off the job this week but U.S. Sugar Corp. and the Farmworkers Rights Organization, representing the striking workers, appear to be caught in a Haitian stand-off.

James E. Terrill, USSC vice president in charge of personnel, said Tuesday afternoon that of 86 Haitians employed by the company, 47 remain on the job and that no demands have been received from Jesus Romo, spokesman for the Farmworkers organization. The union is waiting for USSC to come to it, Louis Bellet, a Farmworkers representative, told the News Tuesday. Bellet was acting as translator for the Creole-speaking Haitian strikers who are picketing the USSC offices.

Bellet cited "more money" as the workers' most important demand. "Ten dollars a ton is what the union would ask," Bellet said.

According to Bellet, workers are required to cut eight tons of cane a day but Terrill said workers are paid not by the ton but by a specified number of feet of cane.

Workers receive a guaranteed minimum pay of $4.69 an hour, according to Terrill. However, workers are assigned a "task," which is a predetermined number of feet of cane to be cut during a nine-hour day, he explained.

Cutters who work "quickly and efficiently," he said, complete a task in fewer than nine hours and are free to go home.

"The average rate of earnings on a piece rate basis (task) during the last week worked for the 38 Haitians who left their jobs was $6.73 per hour, with one-third of them averaging $8 per hour or better," Terrill said.

A task varies from field to field, he explained, because some cane is heavier, more tangled, or contains more foliage.

Noting that USSC has yet to receive any demands either from individual workers or from the union, Terrill said he believes the strike is "a manufactured situation to attract media."

"The tragedy is that I don't think the Haitians understand the sacrifice they're making," Terrill said, referring to the cane workers walking off the job. The men's jobs are still open to them and the company is willing to discuss problems with them on a one-on-one basis, he said.

Speaking for the workers, Bellet said the men who walked out would rather be jobless than work for the wages they get.

In a statement issued this week by Terrill, he explained the arrangement between USSC and workers.

When a worker is employed to cut sugar cane, they are given a contract which provides among other things, free housing, Worker's Compensation insurance, free tools and equipment, transportation from the place of recruitment to the place of employment and three hot meals a day at cost.

So far this year, U.S. Sugar has advanced bus tickets to 106 workers recruited in Immokalee of which only 38 reported to work. The housing furnished without charge to the 38 workers was inspected and approved by representatives of the Department of Labor and is considered to be some of the best in the industry.

As a result of American workers' unwillingness or inability to cut sugar cane, the Corporation over the past years has been able to obtain workers from the British West Indies to fill the cutters' jobs.

During the 1980 harvest, 4,000 workers, most of which were Haitians, were offered cane cutting jobs in the Florida sugar cane industry. 2,200 accepted and were hired, but only 100 finished the five month season. Recruitment efforts during August and September of this year produced 500 workers statewide who say they are willing to cut cane for the coming harvest season.

South Bay mayor's son dies in traffic accident

SOUTH BAY — A 26-year old Boynton Beach resident has been charged with vehicular manslaughter in the death of Donald Douglas Tanner, the son of South Bay Mayor Don Tanner.

Tanner, 20, was killed Saturday night when Anthony Robert Meyers, 26, allegedly ran a stop sign and struck Tanner's automobile broadside, according to a Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office spokesman.

Tanner was southbound on SR 7 in West Palm Beach when Meyers allegedly ran a stop sign at Belvedere and SR 7. Tanner, who was pinned under his vehicle, was declared dead at the scene.

Tammy Reeves, 20, of Pahokee, a passenger in Tanner's car, was admitted to Community Hospital of the Palm Beaches with a brain concussion.

Meyers was arrested Sunday night at Good Samaritan Hospital and is being held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Water Restrictions Ordinance.

"I'm not concerned with cooperation with the South Florida Water Management district, the way they treat us like a bunch of step-children," said Council President George Rashley.

District regulations take effect whether the city has its own ordinance or not, according to Staudard.

The council adopted a resolution proclaiming November 9 through November 22 as Shriner's Hospital Week.

A letter from the Federal Bureau of Investigation thanking Police Chief Carmen Salvatore for his part in the Bruce Hutton kidnapping case was read by Rashley.

The council also adopted a resolution requesting the state put a traffic light at the intersection of Belvedere and SR7 in West Palm Beach. The son of the mayor of South Bay was killed in an automobile accident there last week and a Pahokee resident was injured.

The city also issued a taxi driver's license to Bobby Butler.

Chamber holds banquet

BELLE GLADE—The Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce Annual Awards Banquet will be at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16, at the Belle Glade Elks Lodge. Awards will be presented to the "Citizen of the Year," "Fireman of the Year," "Agri-Industry Man of the Year" and "Policemen of the Year." Sandra Chambliss, last year's "Citizen of the Year," will present the award to this year's recipient, whose identity will remain secret until the presentation.

Newly elected officers will take over their duties at the banquet. James Jacks will succeed Gordon Corbin as president, John E. Baker will become first vice president, Dennis Wedgworth will become second vice president, Doris Priest will take over as treasurer and Jewel Clark will be the executive secretary.

The new board of directors will also be installed at the banquet. They will be Israel Baza, James Herring Jr., Doug Lockhart and Robert Raessler. Old members of the board will be Frank Green, Lynette Thompson and Rupert "Bubba" Mock Jr.

County Commissioner Bill Bailey will be the installation officer.

Bob Murphy will be the featured speaker. Murphy, a Texan humorist, has served as a ranch hand, a Western Union messenger and sergeant-at-arms to the Texas House of Representatives.

Robert C. Lee will be Master of Ceremonies.

The menu will include Prime Rib Beef, and 350 tickets were available at $15 a piece.

The chamber's board of directors Thursday, Oct. 8, decided not to sanction the Country-Bluegrass Festival at the Holiday Inn. The festival will be held this weekend, October 16 to October 18.

"They are trying to legitimize it (the festival)," said Bill Mathis. "Legally, they can do it. They are going to hold it and there will be a lot of security."

but there is a lot of opposition to it. I think the chamber would be ill advised to take a stand in support of it."

In other business, the directors also agreed to enter a float in the Black Gold celebration.

A $15 limit was set to purchase space in the calendar published by the Lions Club.

A $50 limit was set to purchase prizes in Belle Glade Beautification contests.

The directors also authorized payment of the $100 United States Chamber of Commerce dues and the $24 Florida Chamber of Commerce dues.

Raiders prepare for district clash

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE—Two weeks ago, the Glades Central Raiders invaded West Palm Beach and went on a romp, beating Cardinal Newman 32-0.

Last week, they came home to protect their haven against the onslaught of the Twin Lakes gridiron squad.

The Twin Lakes invasion drew no blood. They were too tired.

Chasing the ball from one side of the field to the other can be a bit wearing.

Jacob Rhames and company kept the ball moving. Rhames connected with Raymond MacDonald once for a touchdown, and Author Monroe lead the team with two passes caught and 11 carries for two touchdowns, in the 49-0 victory.

Randy Rutledge also picked up two touchdowns in eight carries. Quarterbacks Jacob Rhames and Jeff Willis also helped their own efforts along with personal TDs.

Rhames completed nine of 13 passes for 109 yards.

The first touchdown came on a pass from Rhames to MacDonald with 10:23 left in the first quarter. The last one came with less than five minutes left to play.

"We played good football," said Raider Coach Ben McCoy. "They (the Raiders) played good football all around."

The Raiders travel to Delrey to take on Atlantic this Friday. A victory there would clinch the district title for Glades Central.

"It's going to be a bruising game," said McCoy of the match between rivals. "They play good football. They'll be coming at us."

If the Raiders lose, they may end up in a three-way playoff for districts.

"I don't want to be in a three-way playoff," said McCoy. "Anything can happen there."

Blue Devils beat Forest Hills 20-0

By JEFF BROWN

PAHOKEE—The Forest Hills Falcons must have thought they were going to have an easy time of it last Friday night in Pahokee.

After all, the Pahokee Blue Devils were 0-3 and had been outscored six to 35 season long. They hadn't even scored in their last two contests.

That makes for bird seed, right?

Wrong!
The Blue Devils were playing before a Homecoming crowd at their own Lair Stadium, and they weren't about to be relegated to bird seed.

When the game was over, it was the Falcons who left scoreless and the Blue Devils who looked invincible. On the scoreboard, at least.

"We were definitely lucky," said Blue Devil Coach Sandy Hyneman. "They had a touchdown called back, so we were lucky there. They got down to within the five-yard line about three times and got turned away. Part of the game is luck. Every team who wins has to be lucky."

It wasn't all luck.
Kenny Rawls carried the ball 15 times for 222 yards and two touchdowns.

"In order for Rawls to have such a good game, the line had to be holding up and opening up holes," said Hyneman, singling out Bernard Johnson, Walter Johnson, Otis Abern and Craig Tomlin for their performance on the offensive line.

Paul Buxton rushed for 20 yards in five carries, and scored one TD.

Even quarterback Antonio Wilson helped the team running game, rushing for 88 yards in seven carries.

The passing game was dismal, however.

Wilson completed only two of seven passes for 13 yards. Bernard Johnson caught one for a gain of eight yards and Walter Johnson caught the other for a five yard gain.

"We didn't try to pass too much," said Hyneman. "We were doing so good on the ground that we didn't even think about passing."

Tomlin had also snatched an interception and tight end Willie Freeman and tackle Norman Harris managed to pull off a couple of sacks.

This week, the Blue Devils host Clewiston. If Clewiston wins, it clinches its district title. Pahokee must win to stay in contention.

"We have to work on all of them (aspects of the game)," said Hyneman. "Passing, defense, running and special teams. We don't want to do a whole lot of changing, because things clicked so well last week. Put a lot of new stuff in, and you're asking for mistakes."

The game is scheduled for 8:00 p.m.

SCRAMBLING IS THE NAME OF THE GAME as this Blue Devil looks for a break in the line during last Friday's game. Pahokee had no trouble moving the ball on the ground and picking up their first victory of the season.

Crusaders win in final seconds

Deja vu.
The score tied and only seconds left to play.

This happened twice before. The Christian Day Crusaders failed to score and the game went into overtime both times.

Each time, they lost it in overtime.

And here it is again. Less than two minutes to play and the score tied 6-6 at Berean Christian. It doesn't look good!

The Crusaders have the ball at the 30 yard line. They missed a field goal from about the same position earlier in the half, so the Crusaders decide to press on.

Tipu Paez, the young quarterback, leads the team for a pick-up of one yard.

There are just seconds left in the game when he fades back and looks over the line for a receiver.

Robert Echols is open and waiting.

Paez fires it off and... it's complete! Echols runs it in and the Crusaders lead 12-6 with 12 seconds left.

The extra-point is good and the Crusaders hold back the Patriots to come home with the victory.

Their record now stands at 3-3. "I think our guys realize they can play with anybody, now," said Crusader Coach Woody Salvatore.

The Crusaders found themselves down 0-6 at the half, but the arm of young quarterback Tipu Paez put them on the scoreboard in the second half with a TD pass to Luis Garcia.

Paez completed 12 of 19 passes for a gain of 142 yards, and threw two touchdown passes.

Luis Garcia caught five of those passes for 52 yards and one TD. Robert Echols caught two passes for 41 yards and a touchdown, and his brother Phillip caught three for 37 yards.

Juan Armas and Joe McMahan each caught one pass for seven and five yards respectively.

Phil Echols was the leading rusher. He picked up 43 yards in 14 carries, while James Barnwell rushed 29 yards in six carries.

Barnwell lead the team defensively with six assisted tackles and three solos. Paez, also doing double-duty on the defensive side, assisted in five tackles and had three solo shots.

Robert Echols and William Cruz each had an interception, and Phillip Echols, Garcia and Cary McKee had one sack apiece.

This week, the Crusaders will host Bishop Verot at Pahokee's Lair field.

"I'm sure we'll be the underdog," said Salvatore. "But they're used to being the underdog. It makes them play better."

The game will start at 3:00 p.m. on Friday.

It's National Newspaper Week

It's National Newspaper Week!

All across the nation, avid newspaper readers are heaping praises upon those who put out their weekly, semi-weekly or daily bearer of information.

Well, maybe it's not quite that way.

There is some talk of a credibility gap, most of it coming from social scientists. Many of them even have experience in the field. A few, at any rate.

But, credibility gap or not, we'd like to tell you how the paper gets to you. From start to finish.

The Herald-Observer has six people working out of its office at 425 S. Main Street in Belle Glade. Jim Jones is the Editor and Kim Allen the Advertising Manager.

Brenda Bunting is the office manager, Alma Henry the associate editor, Jeff Brown a staff reporter and Nina Stoker the circulation manager.

These people produce and deliver the weekly newspaper which you find on your doorstep, at the supermarket or in the bank. If the media is the message, these people are, in a very large sense, the medium.

Paying for the newspaper

Advertising, of course, pays for the newspaper. If not for the revenues generated through selling space in it, each newspaper might sell for several dollars a piece. You get the Herald-Observer free.

Kim Allen sells all the advertisements in the newspaper. He goes to the merchants and makes the sale, works with them to develop an advertisement to suit their needs.

He then produces the advertisement in a form which is reproduced in the newsprinting process. The ads must then be placed, or laid out, in the newspaper.

"We offer the advertisers and readers a newspaper totally devoted to the Belle Glade, Pahokee, South Bay and Canal Point areas," says Kim. "I really do enjoy working with the business in these areas."

Kim is married and has two daughters, Christine and Katherine. He is also a member of the Belle Glade Kiwanis Club.

The amount of advertising Kim sells, plus the amount of news the editorial side can fill, dictates the size of the newspaper.

The space left after the advertisements are placed on the page is called the news hole. It is filled by the editorial department.

"Just the facts, ma'am"

As Editor, Jim Jones is responsible for filling the news hole.

He has been with the Herald-Observer since February. Prior to that time, he had been associated with Hammell Newspapers, the company which owns the Herald-Observer, for five years.

He started as a reporter-photographer with the Clewiston News and Glades County Democrat, and eventually became editor of both those newspapers.

When he took over the reins here, he gave up his position at the Democrat.

He is responsible for the complete editorial content and layout of the newspaper.

The last step in producing the issue is pasteup of the news copy. Jim must make some last minute decisions concerning which stories are printed and which are not printed, and where they are placed in the issue.

"We try to tell the news accurately and fairly and give the most complete coverage we can. We try to reflect what is happening in the community and provide what our readers want to read."

He and his wife, Kim, have two children.

Alma Henry is the associate editor. She not only covers her assigned beats - South Bay City Commission, Glades General Hospital Authority, Belle Glade Housing Authority and Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce - but she handles most of the walk-in copy also. When people enter the office with a pleading, engagement or obituary notice, she usually edits it and makes sure it is prepared for the next issue.

Alma, 27, has been with the Herald-Observer almost five years.

Jeff Brown, 22, is the new comer. He moved here from Pennsylvania in early September and covers the Pahokee City Commission, Canal Hazardous Committee, Pahokee Housing Authority, Belle Glade Solid Waste Authority, Pahokee Chamber of Commerce and the Belle Glade-Pahokee area sports.

Details, details, details...

Every office needs someone to handle the little things, to take the burden of the details off of the others, so they can take care of the more visible, but not more important items.

Brenda Bunting, Herald-Observer office manager, handles the details and keeps this office running.

On a typical day, Brenda will take classified ads, develop film and print pictures, receive reader and customer input and handle some of the news reporting.

Brenda, 30, moved to Belle Glade in 1971 from Ohio with her husband, Bob. They have two boys, Bobby Jr., 11, and Christopher, 8.

In the family

Nina Stoker is the circulation manager. She makes sure you get the newspaper delivered to your doorstep or your local supermarket for you to pick up when you're there.

"She doesn't deliver all the newspapers by herself - she has help from the seven others in her family."

Her husband John, her daughters Kelly, Lisa, and LeeAnne, and her sons John Jr., Jeffrey, and James use a patrol of one van and two cars to make the deliveries.

The family goes to Clewiston, picks up the newspaper, stuffs them into plastic bags for deliveries.

"It's a true nightmare, all those papers," said Nina.

The family splits up and goes to separate stations to deliver the papers.

The job usually takes about ten hours all night long.

"That's the best time to do it," said Nina.

She's married 21 years, moved here from Pennsylvania 18 years ago. She also has a 13 month old son, Carrie.

From us to you

Wednesday is the busiest day of the week.

On a typical Wednesday, Jim Jones and Kim Allen will be preparing the pages while the reporters are writing the latest articles. The reporters then help with the production after the stories are written and-usually in mid-afternoon-it is ready to be printed.

At about 5:30 that evening, Nina and her family arrive to pick up the newspapers and deliver them.

Nina will work throughout the night so that, when you wake up Thursday morning, the paper is on your doorstep.

Learning while you work is the concept at West Tech

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE - Every professional has to learn his or her trade somewhere.

If that profession is a service involving people, the trainees must, sometimes, have to show he or she can safely apply the skills learned in that training. Especially if the profession is licensed by the state.

Where do students go to get the experience needed to get a license?

Many colleges offer internships and most high schools have some form of work-study. At West Tech, students can get hairdressing experience in the classroom.

The course, instructed by Michael Durbin, has reopened its doors to the public. The students may now work on your hair and manicure your nails for a nominal fee meant to cover costs.

About 16 students at West Tech spend the time of a regular school day, 8:00 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., learning what they need to know to take the state board examination and obtain a Florida hairdresser's license, according to Durbin.

The course, which runs from August 3, 1981 to June 29, 1982, will total 1800 hours at a cost of $150 to each student. About $13 of that is for the course itself, according to Durbin. The rest is for equipment, a textbook and a hairdressing kit.

"They should learn everything they need to get their license and work as a hairdresser," said Durbin.

The first 200 hours of the course are spent on mannequins learning basic cuts.

After that, they move to the real thing - living human beings.

Durbin suggests people make an appointment if they want their hair done at the school.

"Last year, we had 10 or 20 people at the hall waiting," he said. "To be sure they get done, they should make an appointment."

The students will learn all processes, including tinting, bleaching, cutting, manicuring, curling hair and giving permanents.

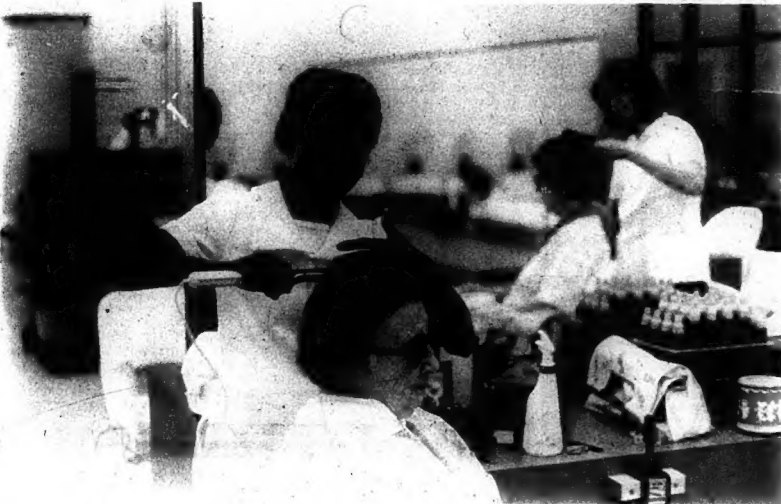

Last year, 19 students who completed the course took their board exams. Eleven of them passed the first time. It can be taken by an individual up to three times.

This year, students are enrolled from as far away as Lake Port.

Durbin drives in from West Palm Beach every day.

In Florida, licensed hairdressers are required to take eight hours of instruction each year. West Tech has developed a curriculum for such a program, but hasn't offered it because it lacks an instructor.

"It would be after hours, four hours starting around 5:00," said Durbin. "By the time I got out of here, it would be 10 and I'd get home around 11:30 or 12."

Photographer wins awards

Clewiston photographer Julio DeCastro brought home two awards for merit from the Florida Professional Photographers exhibit in Daytona Beach Oct. 4-7.

Clewiston High School senior Mary Beth Bass is the model in both of the award-winning 16 by 20 inch color portraits.

Both of the photographs were shot at Bethesda by the Sea in Palm Beach especially for the exhibit.

One of the portraits, called "Sentimental Moment," shows a barefoot Miss Bass, wearing a sleeveless, white, floor-length gown, standing under a concrete archway.

The other portrait, called "Lavender Lady," shows Miss Bass, sitting with a straw hat near a Florida palm which closely matches the color of her dress.

A third photograph, a wedding portrait of Jolene Wilkinson of Pahokee, did not receive an award.

"Wherever I take the pictures, the first question always is, 'Who is the girl?' I get that reaction from a lot of people," DeCastro said of Miss Bass. "She's got a lot of talent. She's a good model."

"It's a lot of work for her, more so than for me," he said.

DeCastro said he was accompanied to Bethesda by the Sea by Mary Beth's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bass, and by his wife, Diana, both of whom made suggestions during the photo session.

DeCastro said the exhibit allows him to compete with the best photographers in the state and to satisfy his creative impulses.

By winning awards of merit in the competition, DeCastro is also working toward the Certified Florida Photographer's award.

DeCastro is the owner of Photography by DeCastro at 306 South W. C. Owen Ave.

GLADES DISTRICT of the Boy Scouts of America hosted a barbecue supper for community leaders from Pahokee, Belle Glade, South Bay, Clewiston, and Moore Haven Monday night, Oct. 12, at the Belle Glade Civic Center. District Executive Rob Carver said the purpose of the barbecue was to recruit support and committee members for the BSA. Persons interested in helping out should call Frank Jones in Clewiston at 983-8181, Bob Fincannon in Pahokee at 924-5241, or Rob Carver in Belle Glade at 996-7358.

JULIO DECASTRO of Clewiston received two awards of merit in competition among state professional photographers earlier this month. He is shown here with the three color portraits that he exhibited and the award of merit that he received.

JOLENE WILKINSON of Pahokee was the subject of this wedding portrait entered by Julio DeCastro in the Florida Professional Photographer's competition earlier this month. The photograph was taken at Bethesda by the Sea in Palm Beach.

would pay back to qualified senior citizens a rebate according to the amount of income coming in to the household, they thus refer to this as household income. This assumes that there are two senior citizens in the house over 65 years of age. For instance, if their household income was $0 - $4,499, they receive 100% of their taxes back in the form of a rebate. Now if they are renting their homestead, they then would receive 20% of the gross amount paid in the form of rent in a calendar year. No tax $10 or less would be rebated and no more than $400 would be rebated to one household. In addition, they have an inflation dividend which again is based on the amount of income per household. If the household income is $0 - $3,999 a dividend of $95 is paid. Above that, $8,999 where $15 is paid. In addition to that, senior citizens may use the Mass Transportation System in Pennsylvania of off-peak hours for free.

Okay, Doc, but where does this revenue come from to pay for all of this? Well - it's not federal money and it's not state tax money. What it does come from is the Pennsylvania State Lottery funds. Yes, I know that the Florida Constitution prohibits lotteries. I'm only stating how other states take care of their senior citizens without tampering with the real estate taxes like our governor did, causing the present tax revolt. In previous columns, I have written on the Michigan lottery which supplies $300,000,000 for education in the state of Michigan. Since that column I have received information from New York State in which close to $400 million is provided for education from the proceeds of their lottery.

With each of these states, I asked them what was the attitude towards gambling in their state. Their answer was that because the funds went to a legitimate government expense, because the funds did not come from general tax revenues, and because these were not funds derived from casino gambling, but came from a state-controlled and audited lottery operation that was not gambling to a dollar or two on a lottery ticket that they are taking money from their take-home pay or from their family in order to take a chance. My resistance to gambling however, goes to the fact that casino gambling and this type of gambling has no control, allows the underworld element to creep into it whereas the lottery is state controlled. There are those across this country in other states who long ago recognized the lottery as a revenue source which did not break the backs of the taxpaying citizens. In these days of lowering budgets, taxes, and the demand for efficiency in government, the lottery in Florida may offer a real opportunity to fund the needs of our senior citizens, our educational needs or transportation needs, without wrecking our taxation system.

It would take a Constitutional Amendment to allow a lottery and to make sure that casino gambling was not allowed, but think on it. Let me know what you think by mail or phone. Be an informed citizen!

See you soon - "Doc"

FSES' manager named

BELLE GLADE-The Florida State Employment Service (FSES) in Belle Glade recently announced the appointment of a new manager, Sylvia Dougherty, to replace Joseph Taylor, who recently took a position elsewhere.

Dougherty is not new to the employment services business, having been with the Tallahassee State office as an Employment Specialist Three and the Sebring Employment Services Office before that for a total of almost seven years.

In questioning her as to how she liked it here so far she said "It has been very interesting so far." "Right now," she said, "we have been busy trying to deal with the (Reagan) budget cuts we've been getting. We haven't gotten the final budget cuts yet, so we don't know exactly how we are going to be affected as far as staffing is concerned."

"We are looking forward to moving to our new location, hopefully at the end of this month, when we will move to the old Have-A Tampa building at 1500 N.W. Ave. L," she said. The new location is under renovation at the present time and will also house the Unemployment Compensation Services.

possible. The last part of training, Fletcher said, "I like being able to send those big main gun rounds downrange and doing what we would have to do in a combat situation."

Tank gunnery is a normal-though exciting part of armor crewmembers training. The crew of a vehicle and crew against the clock to hit a variety of targets. The crew of a tank must have a lot of combat ability. The crew of a tank must be able to "Dis-engage" the tank. The crew of a tank must be able to "Dis-engage" the tank. The crew of a tank must be able to "Dis-engage" the tank.

ing is all about—to afford crews the change to make and correct mistakes, a chance they would not get in combat. Behind the fierce, though friendly, competition among them lies the knowledge that someday, somewhere, their skills may be needed and the highest rating possible would be "Survival."

"I think our training could be improved and made more realistic by moving us to different places now and then," Fletcher said, "and also by providing some opportunities to train with our NATO allies."

A 1975 graduate of Belle Glade High School, Fletcher is "undecided about an Army career just now. I plan on getting married, and a lot is going to depend on my wife, if she wants to be married to a soldier. If she does, then I will probably make it a career."

Fletcher joined the Army in August of 1977 and has served a tour of duty with an armor unit in Schweinfurt, Germany. He has a brother serving in the Air Force and hopes, if he does not stay in the Army, to become a social worker. "I plan on working with kids or people in prison, to help those who need it the most."

Jones, "and we hope to make this a yearly event." Jones said customers at the show were able to take advantage of purchase discounts and refreshments were served throughout the show. A colored, 17 inch Sharp television was won by R.J. Dickson, an employee at the U.S. Department of Agriculture as a door prize. # Blue Grass is Jubilee topic

BELLE GLADE - The Black Gold Jubilee Committee met Friday, October 9, and discussed the possibility of holding a bluegrass-country music festival as part of the festivities.

Dave Perella, who has been in charge of the festival being held at the Holiday Inn in Belle Glade this weekend, volunteered to put together a festival at the Holiday Inn during the Jubilee.

"We'll have this one under our belts, and will know a little about how to do it," he said. "We'd be happy to help."

"I wouldn't strap it to a strictly bluegrass festival because, I don't care who you are, you can only listen to bluegrass for so long, then the twang gets to you," he told the committee.

He suggested the committee vary the bluegrass groups with country bands, and hold the festival on one day instead of a whole weekend.

"It's a big job," he said. "The biggest job is getting a deal on entertainment. Start looking now to get some entertainment, if you want it."

He also said security can be expensive.

"We have $2,000 invested in security (for the festival at the Holiday Inn)," he said. "If it saves one bad thing from happening that would blemish the festival, then it's worth it."

The Holiday Inn would be the ideal spot for the festival because it will have all the necessary facilities after the festival this weekend, according to Perella.

"I can't say I'm going to run it and every penny we make we're going to give to you because the people I work for would kill me," Perella said.

The committee also discussed the possibility of holding the festival at the Belle Glade Marina.

Alice Mixson resigned from the committee, citing lack of time to devote to its activities, and Roger Williams joined the committee.

The committee also discussed the possibility of getting a watermelon queen to come to Belle Glade to make an appearance during the festival, and holding a superstars type competition.

Cooks corner

With the return of fall, Cooks Corner returns as a regular Herald-Observer feature. Each week a recipe and a local resident with her favorite recipe will be spotlighted.

If you wish to contribute to this column, please give us a call here at the Herald-Observer (996-2056) and we will include you, your group or your sorority in this space.

Glades Area Association for Retarded Citizens (GAARC) is fortunate to have as their Executive Director, Trish Blosh, who submitted our first recipe for the season.

Trish and her husband, Tim, have a foster daughter, Donna.

She has been with the ARC for eight years, four of which she has spent in Belle Glade. A native of Morristown, Tennessee, Trish attended the University of Tennessee. Her contribution is "Goofy Bars," a great after school snack.

Curbing drug money

FT. LAUDERDALE - In an effort to halt the flow of drug money into the state, Florida Comptroller Gerald Lewis has strongly urged all state-chartered banks and savings and loan associations to renew their efforts to comply with the U.S. Treasury Department's cash transaction reporting regulations.

In testimony before the U.S. House of Representatives Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, Lewis pointed out that he had recently cited four Miami-area banks for non-compliance with the federal regulations. He also said further citations are in order if those financial institutions don't improve their reporting requirements.

"The federal cash transaction reporting requirement is one tool available to those who want to clean up the drug laundering business in Florida," said the Comptroller. "As such, it is vital that our financial institutions comply with the federal requirements," he continued.

Lewis was referring to Internal Revenue Service (IRS) form 4789 which requires financial institutions to report cash transactions in excess of $10,000 within 15 days after they occur. The primary purpose of the form is to provide law enforcement agencies with information in civil and criminal investigations such as those involving individuals suspected of laundering drug money through banks.

In his testimony Lewis also pointed out the difficulty involved in confirming that financial institutions have actually filed their transaction reports with the IRS. "In the case of one bank," said Lewis, "it appeared that 48 percent of the reports were not filed with the IRS. But when we checked with IRS, they could not certify our findings."

The Comptroller said all financial institutions under his regulation had been notified in writing about the renewed efforts to ensure compliance with federal regulations.
